Suit To Scrap Parochiaid In Early Review

LANSING (AP) - An Ingham County Circuit Court judge and two colleagues have taken on the first review of what may grow into a protracted legal battle the Parochiaid controversy.

Judge Sam Street Hughes, joined at his request by colleagues Jack W. Warren and Donald L. Reisig, said Friday he will try to reach a decision by next Friday on a suit that seeks to block the parochiaid measure recently passed by the Sens. Roger Craig of Dearborn and Basil Brown of Highland Park, both attorneys, argued before the judges that T. Thomas Thatcher, clerk of the house of representatives, should be enjoined from accepting a $1 billion school aid bill containing $25 million for Parochiaid.

Craig, Brown and fellow Democrat Coleman Young of Detroit, contend the Senate erred in passing the bill on the strength of only a 22-15 simple BRUSSELS (AP) - Key allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization seem to have quietly put the big freeze on Greece, which has been accused of undemocratic practices and of torturing its opponents.

The unannounced development coincided with moves to suspend the Althens government from the Council of Europe, a consultative body of 18 nations. Their foreign ministers are due to decide on the issue when they meet next Friday in Paris.

Informed diplomats emphasized that no thought its being given now to suspending Greece from NATO. Under NATO's 20year-old treaty, its members are obliged to defend democra-

Because the Greek governis unpopular, it would have been embarrassing for some, including Secretary of State William P. Rogers, to accept Greek hospitality.

For their part, the Greeks themselves seem less than pleased. Unlike their allies, they sent no cabinet ministers to the current sessions. They were represented by George Tsistopoulos, undersecretary for foreign affairs.

The Big One

They won't be seen around Escanaba for many years and maybe never, but the new "jumbo jets" which will go into commercial passenger service next year are going to have a major impact on the world's aviation.

Pan American Airlines, which will introduce the first scheduled Boeing 747 flights between New York and London by early February, took a group of newsmen and VIP's across the country last week in the first public demonstration of the huge plane. The plane, which has wings as big as basketball courts and can carry up to 490 passengers, took off from Seattle and flew the 2,422 miles to New York in four hours, five minutes at speeds up to 722 miles per hour at an altitude six miles above the earth.

That sure beats the months it used to take from east to west via covered wagon, but in the "jet age" the speed of the flight wasn't the most impressive statistic.

The airplane itself is so big that it's almost like a flying hotel.

Edwin G. Pipp, aerospace writer for the Detroit News, was on the flight and he reported that the jumbo jet, with its 231-foot long fuselage and 195-foot long wing span, "it more like an ocean-going luxury liner than an airplane.

"Passengers are encouraged to walk around," Pipp said. "The cabin is so big that even with seats nine abreast there are two aisles wider than any of today's jets. It takes five minutes to complete a circuit of the cabin - for the traveler who wants to exercise three circuits equal a quarter of a mile."

The plane has a 13-step spiral staircase from the main cabin to a lounge with sofas, easy chairs and a bar and the cabin is so large "that food trays were not used. Buffets were set up outside the galleys (six of them) with passengers easily moving through to make their own selections."

If the "jumbo jet" will make traveling a greater pleasure for passengers, however, it will create even greater headaches on the ground where none of the major air terminals are equipped to handle the number of passengers and luggage the big planes will carry. Special equipment will be needed to allow passengers to board the planes and also to permit easy servic-

Pan American will be the first airliner with the big plane on scheduled routes, but other airlines - including American, Northwest Orient and Delta - are scheduled to begin service in 1970 and 1971.

The Upper Peninsula, of course, is served only by North Central and Trans-Michigan Airlines and just recently received its first scheduled jet service with 100-passenger DC-9 flights. North Central officials say they have no present plan to move into the "jumbo jet set" but do not rule it completely out of the future.

One official said that North Central 20 years ago didn't expect to be flying the present DC-9 aircraft, either. If the passenger traffic continues to grow, he said, who's to say that "jumbo jets" won't come to North Central, too.

By that time, the "jumbo jets" may be little sisters on the world-wide routes.

The U. S. Transportation Department has concurred with the opinion of Menominee County Prosecuting Attorney Charles M. Minerman regarding the question of time in Menominee. Minerman forwarded a petition to the department two weeks ago which asked that the city and public schools abide by the Federal Uniform Time Act. The petition was signed by 130 persons. The city and schools, plus virtually all businesses in the city, are operating on Central Standard Time. Menominee, like the rest of Michigan, is in the Eastern time zone. "We agree with your interpretation of the law applicable to the situation," James B. Minor, assistant general counsel for the department, said in a letter received by Minerman. "People may, of course, adjust their hours in any way they wish, so long as they are announced in terms of the official time applicable to the zone. Federal, State Lands Cut U.P. Tax Power

By JEAN WORTH

Of Panax Newspapers

Are communities in the Upper Peninsula losing the ability to support local government services with their own property taxes?

Because federal and state governments have taken so much U.P. land for their own purposes - more than 40 per cent of it - there has been a big reduction in taxable properties.

Federal and state lands are not taxable; money is paid to local governments in lieu of taxes, but not as much as property tax payments on privately owned lands.

When Richard Whitmer, diopper Peninsula he was told there must be a solution of the Upper Peninsula's tax problem. It was suggested that either tax exemption of government lands must end, or payments in lieu of taxes must increase.

More Research Whitmer suggested in his recommendation to Gov. William Milliken that there is need for more research on the ques-

Pay More Money

When local government observes that private properties pay more taxes than government properties of the same character (commercial forest lands, for instance) it is apt to suggest that government pay more, or that it return its lands to private ownership. Whitmer heard these suggestions repeat-

Lands Inventoried

Whitmer reported this week that there are about 10 million acres in the U.P. (excluding the 539,000 acres of Isle Royale) with nearly 90 per cent in forest. Of the commercial forest land, 4.5 million acres are off the ad valorem tax roll, so close to half of it is not subject to the property tax upon which schools and local governments depend heavily. The federal forests in the U.P. include 1.8 million acres, the state forests 1.7 million acres, county and municipal forests 73,000 acres and 774,000 acres are in the Commercial Forest Reserve.

There are also other governmental lands which are not forests, like the 82,000 acres of state parks, and private lands given special tax treatment under the metallic mining laws.

Private commercial forest lands in the U.P., the Michigan Department of Natural Resources estimates, pay an everage of 50 cents an acre in property taxes.

Payments Detailed

Federal lands pay an average of 9 cents, so the "loss" each year on federal lands is $750,000. (at 41 cents per acre.) State lands pay 20 cents an acre, so the local tax "loss" on them (as compared with private ownership) is $420,000 The "loss" on Forest Reserve lands paying an average of 20 cents an acre is calculated at

$270,00, but this does not include the payoff of the severance tax, which justifies this The total loss from all categories nears $1.5 million and is estimated probably to exceed $2 million, a significant item in the the Upper Peninsula's economy, but Whitmer pointed out that their support and cooperation. the availability of public lands and that its need of government ing it worse. For one thing, the

than that of land in private ownership.

If the Upper Peninsula's view of its tax needs and its landholding however, includes a look backward it will reveal how the present situation developed. Because the state and counties did not, before the Commercial Forest Reserve Act, grant a delay in full taxation of growing timber until it was harvested, private commercial forest owners were compelled to cut their timber and abandon their denuded forest lands. They could not pay taxes and grow another crop at a profit.

Forest Created

State and federal forests rector of the Michigan Depart- were created in the resulting ment of Commerce, toured the vacuum. They rehabilitated huge areas of the Upper Peninsula's forest lands. They are productive again.

And to their value as timberlands has been added in recent years a new value as recreational areas.

Where Michigan will find a balance between the value of forest land for production of wood products and its value as a recreational area still is uncertain. There may never be a clear definition of the two relative values to permit a valid ac-services is probably less costly al area, if the recreationist happens to be a hunter. Over Simplification?

> State Department of Commerce officials concerned with the Upper Peninsula's problem of keeping a sufficient local property tax base seem to think at this early stage of their deliberations that to suggest that the state and federal governments put their U.P. lands back in private ownership or increase the payments on them in lieu of taxes oversimplifies the problem and may not solve it.

> The basic concern is to put Upper Peninsula natural resources to work for maximum benefit to the people. B. M. Conboy, chief of the Office of Economic Expansion, tells Upper Peninsula leaders that they may not yet appreciate the huge size of the forest resource that spreads across the Upper Peninsula.

It is, he suggests, the thing that gives special character and attraction to the Upper Peninsula for visitors and which serves as a backdrop for the concentrated lures of its recreation centers.

Ann Landers Meeting People Has Party On 'Deep End'

lem, to put it bluntly, is that I cannot get along with people. Before you toss this letter aside let me say I am not a confused teenager. I am 41 and hold a very responsible position. I have no problems in my family life - only in my associations with others.

Something about me creates a negative response. When I meet people for the first time they lose interest quickly. I've tried to make friends of my fellow-employes. I've failed. I eat lunch in the office cafeteria every day. Everyone seems to be with someone. I am always along. Two years ago I joined a bowling league, hoping it would help. After a few weeks I felt as if I didn't fit in, so I quit.

I tried a chess club. The same thing happened. I realize I have a tremendous inferiority complex, but I've been rebuffed so many times I'm afraid to try any more. I'm uneasy with groups and reluctant to speak. After a while, I have an overwhelming desire to go off alone. At the same time I want desperately to stay. Does this sound insane? Is that my problem? Am I crazy? Is there any hope for me? If not, thank you for listening. — The Loner

Dear Friend: David Reisman's book, "The Lonely Crowd" is full of people like you. You are NOT alone. Your name is legion.

Your problem is a lack of inner security. You think so poorly of yourself that you can't imagine anyone wanting to be your friend. You build walls instead of bridges - and those walls are constructed to keep people at a distance so they cannot see your loneliness. The conflict of wanting closeness and fearing it can make a person sick.

I urge you to get counseling. You need to get to know yourself. When you discover that your are worthy of friendship you will then be able to extend your hand to others - and they will reach out and accept what you have to offer. * * *

Dear Ann Landers: My turtle died. We didn't know until it was too late that he was only a baby and should have been kept warm.

Three days ago Ringo seemed to be hibernating. Mom called the pet shop and asked why Ringo was so anti-social all of a sudden. The lady said, "He is probably cold. Put a heating pad on him. After all, he is only a baby." By then it was too late. Ringo was already too sick. Probably pneumonia. He died the next day.

I think it is a crime to sell a pet and not give the owners instructions on how to take care of him. The woman in the pet shop should have told us when we bought Ringo that he

It was the 36th anniversary of the death of Prohibition. Celebrants at Lansing were members of the Michigan Licensed Beverage Association, composed of liquor license holders.

Prohibition came to an end when Utah became the 36th state to ratify the 21st Amendment repeal of the 18th amendment to the U.S. Constitution which had banned the sale of alcoholic beverages Eddy Shepherd, coordinator of activities for the association.

noted that Michigan welcomed back liquor by a 3-1 margin of The legal sale of alcoholic beverages provides Michigan with $145 million a year in taxes, Shepherd said. The industry employs more than 71,-000 workers with an annual payroll of more than $260 million,

"Today we have licensing and control in well regulated places of business - a great contrast to the thousands of blind pigs and speakeasies that flourished in the days of Prohibition," Shepherd added.

Phil's Phun Phest,' Planned For Tuesday

The Dells Supper Club, sparkling with yuletide decorations, will be the scene of one of the first social events of this festive holiday season, Tuesday evening, Dec. 9 with Congressman Philip Ruppe and his wife, Loret, as honored guests.

"We have planned an evening, the theme of which is fun, mirth and frivolty," explained Mrs. Robert Hansley, committee member," in short it will be an event that will be long remembered."

"Phil's Phun Phest," will feature a buffet supper and lots of friendship, with no speeches," said Harold Vanulerberghe, committee chairman. The gathering will be informal, in a Gay 90's atmosphere, featuring peanuts and beer on the tables.

Buffet serving will begin at 6 p.m. and will continue into the night so friends can come when they want, talk and socialize with Phil and Loret and other friendly people, dance if they like and leave when they care

Tickets are available at all county banks, Gust Asp's Buchman's Store in Rapid River or by contacting Harold Vanlerberghe, Escanaba, or Arthur Pope, Gladstone.

Pups To Pay College Tuition

PHILADELPHIA (AP) Mary Leisner is working her way through college by growing pups. In a two-room apartment. Right now she has 12 Afghan nounds and an Irish Setter.

"Lots of students find classes and lectures a chore; I find them a welcome relief," says Mary, a slender blonde sophomore at the University of Penn-

She started breeding and selling Afghans in August 1968 and paid a semester's tuition with her first litter. The pups bring about $200 each.

"I didn't learn until mid-August that my tuition loan was phased out in the federal education cutback," Mary says, "and there weren't too many ways I could come up with $1,000 on short notice.'

"They are work," she says. Puppies need a lot of attention. My studies are suffering. So am I. It's costing about $50 a week to feed them.'

The 10 pups are barricaded in the bathroom with a 31/2-foot-tall street sign nailed to the doorway. Mary and her sister use a wooden milk carton to boost hemselves in and out.

Some problems Mary didn't count on: One night the pups got into fabric dye and all turned green. Another time they closed the bathtub drain and flooded the place. And then there was the hamper raid . .

"Guess I'm lucky the bathroom is large," Mary says. "It's what separates me from insani-

"It's astounding that people could believe in security as we did. I'll never believe again," said District Court Magistrate Howard Magoon who, as Army Air Corps Pvt. Magoon, 23d Bomb Sqd., was stationed at Hickam Field on Dec. 7, 1941.

Tomorrow marks the 28th anniversary of the day when Japan launched a surprise attack against the U.S. Pacific fleet at Pearl Harbor. The attack, which lasted off-and-on for a two hour period between 8 and 10 a. m., has been described, by historians, as a limited tactical success but a strategic blunder since it forced the United States into war. However, the men at Pearl Harbor or Hickam Field were not concerned with any historian's evaluation when the attack took place. "Our main concern was self-preservation and only self-preservation," Magoon said in recalling events of "that Sunday."
